

www.i90wildlifewatch.org

Report wildlife on I-90

dead or alive

Scan with your smartphone
<http://gettag.mobi>

American marten
Photo courtesy of Tom Cottrell 2010

In the Snoqualmie Pass region of Washington, I-90 intersects an important wildlife corridor for animals moving north and south through the Cascades. I-90 Wildlife Watch invites motorists to report wildlife sightings along I-90 between North Bend and Easton. The data collected from this project will help inform current transportation planning efforts to reduce wildlife-vehicle collisions and enhance habitat connectivity near I-90 Snoqualmie Pass.

For more information about I-90 Wildlife Watch, to view wildlife observations made by others, and to report a wildlife sighting yourself, please visit www.i90wildlifewatch.org.

Join us on Facebook

Printed on 30% post consumer waste recycled paper